ECO-CHIC ENGAGEMENT RINGS

Say I do with green bling

Nicole Pajak 2010/07/28

Who says earth-friendly can't be fabulous? Certainly not green team Eric Grossberg and Beth Gerstein who created their environmentally and ethically responsible jewelry company, Brilliant Earth. When Beth's fiancé couldn't find a sustainable and conflict-free engagement ring, the pair decided to build their San Francisco-based brand on those two principles. Using diamonds retrieved from Canadian mines, recycled precious metals, and donating a 5% profit to countries affected by the jewelry industry, these sparkly stunners are sure to please any eco-conscious bride.
